

MAYBE SUMMER OF 1816 IS REPEATING

Three Cold, Freakish Months, as Newspaper Clippings of
the Day Show

FAIR WEATHER PROMISED

The theory that meteorological phenomena repeat themselves in cycles is advocated by certain students of weather of the past of the United States, particularly the weather of that section included in the Intemperate zone of New York and the New England States. Basing his point of view on the phenomenally cool weather of this June, as recorded up to date, Abram N. Nakemann, secretary of a committee of social, political and historical societies of New York, writes to THE SUN about the marvellous summer weather of 100 years ago, intimating that the cycle of seasons may be celebrating its centenary pretty

Just 100 years ago, he says, came the "great cold summer." There were eighteen inches of snow in certain sections in June, ice in July and frosts in August, and the crops were ruined. The newspapers of the day, Mr. Wakomaru writes, "give accounts of the weather conditions that seem almost incredible." For instance, the Salem (N. Y.) Gazette of June 11, 1816, said:

"At 10 o'clock on Saturday morning we had a slight snow. On Sunday morning ice was drawn from the well at the tollhouse on the turnpike after sunrise, and there was frost again on

The Albany Argus of June 14, 1816, reported snowfalls the week before and a temperature below 32, the freezing point, two or three times. The diary of John L. Balcome of Ticonderoga said that on Feb. 1, 1816, "there was ice on the river."

thick as window glass," and "many ponds in New York, and that "August" was the best of all, and snow fell more or less the entire month." The New York Spectator of July 12, 1816, remarked:
"Our friends from the country inform us that on Monday morning frost was visible in the lowlands. The cool weather of the four or five days past has given a check to vegetation. Accounts from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are melancholy."

The local meteorologists were not inclined to believe that meteorological history was going to repeat itself this summer, which is due to arrive at 1:16 P. M. to-morrow. There has been a weather bureau of Uncle Sam in business thirty-three years and it has never found anything approaching the phenomena of the 1816 summer in those thirty-three years.

Last night its local expert said the day had been about normal for a late spring day. The highest temperature on the breezy tower—and they never had any in 1816—was 74. Three thunder storms helped the umbrella trade. The forecast for this day does not call for snow with possible icebergs in the Hudson, but just for fair weather, with moderate temperature and gentle southerly winds. But one can't tell about it—

—Br-r-r-r-r!—
MOLTKE DIED AFTER SPEECH.
Had Just Finished Enlorging Gen-von der Goltz.
LONDON, June 19.—Details of the sudden death of Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke have reached here by way of Copenhagen.
It is said that the former Chief of Staff was stricken while delivering a eulogy of Field Marshal von der Goltz at the memorial service for the latter in the Reichstag yesterday.
Although very ill, Count von Moltke

The German Emperor in a message congratulating Count von Moltke's birthday said:

"The fatherland will not forget his great services. So long as I live, I shall remember him as my best friend, the wisest man, with a character of gold and a warm, loyal heart, was to me and my army. I have lost a true friend in him."

Harry Smith Ford.

Harry Smith Ford, former commodore of the Tappan Sea Yacht club, died yesterday at his home, No. 106 Lexington street, the Hudson-Rockland country, in his sixty-second year. Mr. Ford, who had been retired from business for more than twenty years, was born in the Village of Yorkville. During recent years,

He had taken great interest in motor boating and was the owner of the Little Jack.

Mr. Ford was a member of the United League Club, the Columbia Yacht, the Rockland and the New England Country clubs. He was survived by his widow and one son, Richard E. Ford.

Ex-Justice Only a Papot Knight.

WOLFEKKE N. J. June 19. — Former Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. Delaney has been made a Knight of St. Gregory by the Pope. Justice Delany has devoted much of his life to the church. He is a member of the Lawyers Club, Bar Association, Southern Society, American Geographic Society and Players Club. He was president of the Catholic Club.

MARRIED.

WHITE-CHAMPLIN.—June 19, 1916, a ceremony N. M. Leila Astor Chamberlaine of New York and Miss Winthrop Leitch of Long Beach, California, daughters of Mrs. Stanford White of New York, by the Rev. George P. Jones.

DIED.

FORD—Harry Smith, on June 10, 1906.
Funeral service at his late residence
1441 Ave. of Hudson, Hudson county,
New York, June 11, 1906, at 4 o'clock. Interment in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery at convenience of family.
Kindly omit flowers.

KILBURN—At South Orange, N. J.,
June 18, 1906, Margaretta D. Kilburn.

LITTLE—On Sunday, June 18, 1918, at her home, Fifth street and Hilson avenue, Garden City, La. L. Julia Weston Little, in the seventy-third year of her age, widow of Robert F. Little and mother of Robert Forsyth Little and Julia Little Keadler.

Funeral service will be held at her residence on Tuesday, June 26, 1935 upon the arrival of train leaving New York city at 2 P. M.

MARY ANN WILSON, of Williamsport, Mass., an infant of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Marsh.

Funeral private.

SPERRY.—At Morristhale, Conn., on Saturday, June 15, 1935, Emily Peters, widow of James A. Sperry.

Funeral services at Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y., Tuesday, June 26, 1935, at 2 P. M.

UNDECEASED.

1970
R-145 FRANK E. CAMPBELL, W. 234 S. 10th

Wanted to swap: A donkey for a horse.

ALLIED BAZAAR HOLDS RECORD FOR PALACE

Attendance Nearly 750,000, Surpassing Any Previous Show There.

Thirty girls from the Ziegfeld "Follies" will attend the Latin Quarter ball in the Cafe de Paris tea garden at the Allied Bazaar to-night along with Mary Pickford, Elsie Janis, Billie Burke and other feminine stars, so there will be no lack of attractive partners for the young men who buy tickets.

to-night. This announcement is made by George A. Kessler, who is running the B. F. B. Blind Fund tea garden on the top floor of the Grand Central Palace. Mr. Kessler says that he has secured the sole bazaar rights to the "Follies" beauties and that to-morrow they will come to the bazaar in three Fifth avenue buses and march straight to his tea garden, where they will go through the same performance they will give later at the Amsterdam Theatre.

roof garden. He expects them at 9 P. M. To-morrow, he says, is Blind Day at the bazaar and at 5 o'clock Mrs. Helen Keller will talk in the tea garden following an entertainment "full of surprises."

Yesterday was Bohemian Day and at least 6,000 Bohemians and Slovaks attended, among them B. G. Gregr, editor of the Hlas Lidu and son of the man who led the Bohemian party in the Austrian Parliament forty-two years ago.

Yesterday was Bohemian Day and about 6,000 Bohemians and Slovaks attended, among them R. G. Grogg, editor of the Bohemian and at the same time the man who led the Bohemian party in the Austrian Parliament forty-two years ago.

Rich G. Hollaman, president of the International Exposition Company, proprietors of Grand Central Palace, says that previous records for attendance, surpassing even the crowds at the automobile and flower shows. Nearly 750,000 persons have visited the Palace since June 3.

Executives Waldemar De Bille and George C. Weller, he says, have a long night and day to take care of the enterprise. A big auction sale is announced for tomorrow.

Richard G. Hollaman, president of the International Exposition Company, proprietors of Grand Central Palace, says that the Allies' program has broken all previous records for attendance, surpassing even the crowds at the automobile and flower shows. Nearly 750,000 people have visited the Palace since June 8. Executives Waldemar De Hille and George Allen, Treasurer, are up at night, and day to take care of the enterprise. A big auction sale is announced for the closing day.

Among the awards made yesterday were a Maxwell automobile to A. Stralman, a Nassau street, a pearl necklace to Mrs. N. Taylor, 480 Park avenue, a pedigreed collie dog to Mrs. N. J. Clarke, 77 West Ninety-fourth street, and a spaniel dog to J. P. McAnany, N. Y. A. C.

MRS. ASSAUR MAY CHANGE PLAN to for the closing day.

Among the awards made yesterday were a Maxwell automobile to A. Stralman, 5 Nassau street, a pearl necklace to Mrs. N. Taylor, 480 Park avenue, a pedigreed collie dog to Mrs. N. J. Clarke, 77 West Ninth-fourth street, and a spangled gown to J. P. McAnney, N. Y. A. C.

MRS. ASTOR MAY CHANGE PLAN

Hint of Postponement of Wedding Until Next Week.

BAR HARBOR, N. M., June 19.—A friend of Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor intimates to-day that the marriage of Mrs. Astor and William K. Dick might be postponed to next week. No elaborate preparations have been made at Bar Harbor, and it seems certain that the wedding will be simple, with only about twenty

Hint of Postponement of Wedding Until Next Week.

BAR HARBOR, Me., June 19.—A friend of Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor intimated to-day that the marriage of Mrs. Astor and William K. Dick might be postponed to next week. No elaborately prepared hints have been made at ladies' and gentlemen's parties, and it is rather probable it seems certain that the wedding will be simple, with only about twenty guests.

The Rev. A. C. Larned, who is expected to perform the ceremony, has not been informed of the date when his services will be required. He is rather vaguely suggested that Mrs. Astor might after all go back to New York to be married. She stayed indoors to-day and denied herself to callers.

After an effort to overcome the difficulties presented by the five day law of Maine she went to Portsmouth, N. H.

The Rev. A. C. Larned, who is expected to perform the ceremony, has not been informed of the date when his services will be required. In an interview vaguely suggested that Mrs. Astor might after all go back to New York to be married. She stayed indoors to-day and denied herself to callers.

After a long and weary overnight sojourn in the Pullman, the difficulties presented by the five day law of Maine she went to Portsmouth, N. H. yesterday, hoping to be married to-day but met with the same obstacle.

TOURISTS BY AUTOMOBILE.

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 19.—Arrived by automobile at the Equinox House including Mrs. John J. Mitchell, John J. Mitchell, Jr., Chicago; Duncan T. Forbes, Rockford; Davis Thomas, Rochester; Charles B. Moore, New York, Local

TOURISTS BY AUTOMOBILE.

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 19.—Arrival by automobile at the Equinox House includes Mrs. Joseph J. Mitchell, John J. Mitchell, Jr., Chicago; Duncan T. Forbes, Rockford; Davis Thomas, Rochester; Charles B. Moore, New York, Local mobile; Mrs. C. H. Stevens, Mrs. G. M. Eaton; Miss Anna Aden, James G. Cannon, Jr., Scarsdale, Chalmers; Charles Fode, Mrs. Fode, Miss New York Fode, Master Fode, Miss Judy Chandler; Charles S. Proctor, Miss Edith Proctor, Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Harrington, Adams, Mass.; Studebaker; Mr. and Mrs. M. Barber, New York Dodge.

Swift & Company's sales of Beef in New

The theory that meteorological phenomena repeat themselves in cycles is advocated by certain students of weather of the past of the United States, particularly the weather of that section included in the intemperate zone of New York and the New England States. Basing his point of view on the phenom-

corded up to date, Abram Wakemans, secretary of a committee of several literary and historical societies of New York, writes to THE SUN about the "marvellous summer weather of 100 years ago, intimating that the cycle of iceless summers may be celebrating its centenary pretty soon."

Just 100 years ago, he says, came that "great cold summer." There were "eighteen inches of snow in certain sections ally cool weather of this June, as recorded up to date, Abram Wakemans, a well-known meteorologist and meteorologist and historical societies of New York, writes to THE SUN about the marvelous summer weather of 100 years ago, intimating that the cycle of iceless summers is celebrating its centenary pretty soon.

Just 100 years ago, he says, came the "great cool summer." There were "eighteen inches of snow in certain sections in June, ice in July and frosts in August." He quotes a letter from a newspaper of the day, Mr. Wakemans writes, "give accounts of the weathering conditions that seem almost incredible."

For instance, the Salem (N. Y.) Gazette of June 11, 1896, said:

"On the 10th of Saturday morning we had a slight snow. On Sunday morning ice was drawn from the well at the tollhouse on the turnpike after a surprise, and there was rain again on Sunday."

For instance, the Salem (N. Y.) Gazette of June 11, 1816, said:

"On the 10th and 11th of Saturday morning we had a slight snow. On Sunday morning ice was drawn from the well at the tollhouse on the farm after a summer and there was no further snow until the 15th of the month. A gentleman in town from a journey said that in the upper part of this State on Saturday large icicles formed and the foliage was so much injured that the leaves of the forest were plucked with frost."

The Albany Evening Journal of 1816 reported snowfalls the week before and a temperature below 32, the freezing point, two or three times. The diary of John T. Bacom of Ticonderoga said that "the snow was so deep and so thick as window glass" on many ponds in New York and that "August was

The town clerk on a journey said that in the upper part of this State on Saturday the large icicles formed and the foliage was killed. The forests were plaited with frost. On Sunday, January 15, 1880, the weather reported snowfalls the week before and a temperature below 32, the freezing point, two or three times. The diary of John I. Balcomb of Concordia said that the ice was "thick as window glass" on many ponds in New York, and that "August was the worst of all, and snow fell more or less the entire month." The New York Spectator said: "The ice is everywhere. Our friends from the country inform us that on Monday morning frost was visible in the lowlands. The cool weather of the four or five days past has given a check to vegetation. Accounts from New Hampshire and Vermont are melancholy."

The local meteorologists were not inclined to believe that meteorological his-

The worst of all, and show fell more or less the entire month." The New York State Agricultural Experiment Station says that the friends from the country informed them on Monday morning frost was visible in the lowlands. The cool weather of the four or five days past has given a check to vegetation. Accounts from Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont are melancholy."

The local meteorologists were not inclined to believe that meteorological history was going to reveal itself this summer. "The weather is not going to change to-morrow. There has been a weather bureau of Uncle Sam in business thirty-three years and it has never found anything approaching the phenomena of the 1816 summer," those thirty-three years ago. "I thought it was the worst of the day had been about normal for a late spring day. The highest temperature was on the breezy tower—and they never had any in 1816—was 74. Three thunday when he is released. The day which is due to arrive at 1:15 P.

 M. to-morrow. There has been a weather bureau of Uncle Sam in business thirty-three years and it has never found anything approaching the phenomena of the 1816 summer. In those thirty-three years of the night of the 13th of August, the day had been about normal for a late spring day. The highest temperature on the breezy tower—and they never had any in 1816—was 74. Three things were different. The first was a trace of the forecast for this day does not call for snow with possible icebergs in the Hudson, but just for fair weather, with moderate temperature and gentle southerly winds. But one can't tell about this.
 —Br-r-r-r-r! 5—June weather!

MOLTKE DIED AFTER SPEECH.

Had Just Finished Entangling Gen-

The forecast for this day does not call for snow with possible icebergs in the Hudson, but just for fair weather, with moderate temperature and gentle south-
-erly winds. But one can't tell about this——Br-r-r-r-r! Is—June weather!

MOLTKE DIED AFTER SPEECH.

Had Just Finished Entertaining General von Goitz.

LONDON, June 19.—[Details of the sudden death of Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke have reached here by way of Copenhagen.]

It is said that the former chief of staff was stricken while delivering a eulogy of Field Marshal von der Goltz at the memorial service for the latter in the Reichstag yesterday.

Although very ill, Count von Moltke managed to finish his address, but fell

LONDON, June 19.—Details of the sudden death of Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke have reached here by way of Copenhagen.

It is said that the former chief of Staff was stricken while delivering a eulogy of the late Marshal von der Goltz before the memorial service for the latter in the Reichstag yesterday.

Although very ill, Count von Moltke managed to finish his address, but fell to the floor and died five minutes later. At the funeral, which took place yesterday, the German Emperor was praising the late Field Marshal.

The German Emperor in a message of condolence from main headquarters to Count von Moltke's widow said:

"I have been deeply affected by the great services so long as I live I shall gratefully remember what this upright wise man, with a character of gold and a warm, loyal heart, was to me and my army. I have lost a true friend and

The king and queen, however, later were crowned in the city of Berlin, and were passing the late Field Marshal.

The German Emperor in a message of condolence from main headquarters to Count von Moltke's widow said:

"The fatherland will not forget his great services. So long as I live I shall gratefully remember what this upright, wise man, with a character of gold and a warm, loyal heart, was to me and my army. I have lost a true friend and I miss him."

Harry Smith Ford.

Harry Smith Ford, former commodore of the Tappan Zee Yacht Club, died yesterday at his home at Grand View-on-the-Hudson, New York, at the age of sixty-second years. Mr. Ford, who had been retired from business for more than ten years, was the son of the late Simon Ford of Yonkers. During recent years he had taken great interest in motor boats and in the city of New York.

Harry Smith Ford.

Harry Smith Ford, former commodore of the Tappan Zeck Yacht Club, died yesterday at his home at Grand View-on-the-Hudson, in Dutchess county, in his sixty-sixth year. Mr. Ford, who had been retired from business for more than ten years, was the son of the late Simon Ford of Yonkers. During recent years he had taken great interest in motor boats and was the owner of the "Little Joker."

Mr. Ford was a member of the United League Club, the Columbia Yacht, the Rockland Country and the New Rochelle Country clubs. He is survived by his widow and one son, Richard E. Ford.

Ex-Justice Dials a Papal Knight.

YONKERS, N. J., June 12.—Former Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. Daly has been made a Knight of St. Gregory

Mr. Ford, was a member of the United League Club, the Columbia Yacht, the Rockland Country and the Nyaack Country clubs. He is survived by his widow and one son, Richard E. Ford.

Ex-Justice Only a Papal Knight.

YONKERS, N. J., June 15.—Former Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. Daly has been made a Knight of St. Gregory by the Pope. Judge Daly has devoted much of his life to charity. He is a member of the Lawyers Club, Bar Association, Southern Society, American Geographic Society and Players Club, and was president of the Catholic Church.

MARRIED.

WHITE—CHAMBERS—June 13, 1916, a Gomezo N. V. Leiria Astor (Chambers).

by the Evening Judge daily has devoted much of his life to charity. He is a member of the Lawyers Club, Bar Association, Southern Society, American Geographic Society and Players Club and was president of the Catholic Club.

MARRIED.

WHITE-CHAMBERS—June 13, 1916, a ceremony, N. V. Leila Astor Chamber daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Chamber, to Jacques Louis White son of Mrs. Stanford White at New York, by the Rev. George P. Jones.

DIED.

FORD—Harry Smith on June 10, 1916. Funeral services at his late residence, 1212 West 10th St., Indian Territory, Tuesday, June 13, 1916. Burial at Greenwood, New York.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Linsley, to Mr. and Mrs. George White, of Mrs. Stanford White, at New York, by the Rev. George T. Jones.

DIED.

(BY INVITATION.)

FOUR—HARRY SMITH, on June 15, 1906.
Funeral services at his late residence, 125 East 10th street, at Hudson Park, at 2 o'clock, New York. Burial, at the Catholic cemetery. Interment in place of repose. Composure at conclusion of family kindred and friends.

KILBURN—At South Orange, N. J., June 18, 1906, Margaretta D. Kilburn, wife of John D. Kilburn.
Funeral service at her late residence, 511 South Orange avenue, on Tuesday, at 2:30 P. M. Interment convenient of family. Please and flowers.

LITTLE—On Sunday, June 18, 1906, at KILBURN—At South Orange, N. J., June 8, 1906, Margaretta D. Kilburn, wife of John H. Kilburn.

Funeral service at her late residence, 511 South Orange avenue, on Tuesday at 2:30 P. M. Interment convenient of family. Please omit flowers.

LITTLE—On Sunday, June 18, 1906, at ne home Fifth street and Hillon avenue, Garden City, L. I., Julia Wilson Little, the recently-hild son of her grandfather, Robert H. Little and grandmother of Robert Forsyth Little and Julia Little Paulkner.

Funeral service will be held at her late residence on Tuesday, June 20, 1906 upon the arrival of train leaving New York at 5 P. M.

MATTHEW William W. of Williamsburg, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. W.

hanged fifty street and Hillman Avenue.
Gardner City, E. L. Julia Wilson Latta.
The late artistically trained and hergation of Robert F. Little and mortu-of Robert Forsyth Little and Julia Little Paulkner.
Funeral service will be held at her late residence on Tuesday, June 26, 1940 upon the arrival of train leaving New York City at 2 P. M.
MARRIED: William V. of Williamsburg, Va.
Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L.
Marsh.
Funeral private.
SPERRY.—At Marblehead, Conn., on Saturday, June 17, 1940, Emily Sperry, widow of James A. Sperry.
Funeral services at Central Hills Cemetery,
Boston, N. Y., Tuesday, June
26, 1940, at 2 P. M.

He was 81 years old. A sister, Miss Mary E. Kilburn, survives.